The Jags gave Stacey Mack the call, and four TFL teams jumped. Jeff George – well, you know Jeff George.

Down go Fred and Jeff

By Pushpin Papoo
TFL Today Correspondent

The annual Fred Taylor IR move occurred this week. Gee, that didn't take long.

No fewer than four teams put in a transaction for Stacey Mack, the Jaguars' fill-in for the habitually injured Taylor. And the running back goes to . . .

Bagdad, for having not only an 0-2 record, along with fellow bidder East Hartford, but having the second fewest points in the league.

Dutch Harbor and Flint also bid for Mack, but get real. They must have known they'd have competition with worse records.

The other hot properties in a flurry of drop-adds were James Thrash and Jerome Pathon. East Hartford listed Thrash followed by Pathon as its choices. Alaska listed Pathon followed by Thrash. Anchorage requested only Thrash. And Limerick, Bagdad and Narcoossee requested only Pathon.

The Ex-Eskimos got Thrash, and Bagdad was awarded Pathon. Bagdad's next step will be to address the all-too-expected shitcanning of Jeff George by Washington. He'll get picked up, and maybe even by a team his (to stretch the word) gifts are suited to.

Taking some of the sting away is the fact that George was the Newts' backup. But adding some of the sting back is the fact that Vinny Testaverde is the Newts' starter.

Of course, with a starter like Matt Hasselbeck, Steve Katz wisely withheld any chiding.

The galling move of the week award goes to Charles Bingham, for joining the crowd bidding for Pathon and Thrash. Alaska is 2-0 with 101 points, after Lacy basically drafted his team for him.

The How Does He Do It award goes to Mike Taylor, for showing up for a day and a half of the convention, nearly oversleeping the draft, sleeping through parts of it, and starting off 2-0 with 99 points, barely trailing Bingham.

And from the This Just In Dept.: Willow and Limerick pulled off a trade, with the Weasels sending Aaron Brooks and Terry Allen away for Tim Couch and Corey Dillon.

Now, you just knew Willow drafted Brooks as its backup QB in the third round for a reason, didn't you?

"Of course I knew McNair would get hurt and Limerick would need a new starter," said Van Williams, proving the existence of not only his brain, but the rest of him. He now has Favre, Eddie George and Dillon.

Triple Martini, anyone?
